WHAT IS A MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE CLAIM?

Medical or Clinical negligence can arise out of many circumstances but broadly speaking claims will fall into one of three categories:

- A mistake by the professional whilst carrying out the treatment such as prescribing the wrong drugs or carrying out an operation incorrectly
- An omission being made by the professional such as failing to diagnose a condition or failing to refer a patient for a scan that would have resulted in a condition being diagnosed
- Failure to obtain consent prior to carrying out treatment or warn of the potential risks and side effects of it

TYPES OF MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE CLAIMS

- Misdiagnosis or failure to diagnose cancer
- Birth injury claims including cerebral palsy
- Failure to diagnose or correctly treat brain tumours
- Failure to diagnose at Accident & Emergency
- Complications following surgery
- Failure to diagnose or effectively treat septicaemia
- Failure to diagnose fractures
- Plastic and cosmetic surgery
- Errors during surgical procedures
